FIGHT AGAINST OPENING BARS.

MASS MEETING YESTERDAY AFTERNOON PETITIONS FOR PRIMARY.

After Considerable Discussion the Meeting Agreed to Circulate a Petition Asking for a Primary at Once in Which the White Voters May Ask the Aldermen Not to Grant License.

As a result of the mass-meeting held in the courthouse yesterday afternoon. the board of aldermen will be requested to call a primary of the white voters of the city to determine whether or not saloons shall be opened in Greensboro. This course was decided upon after an informal discussion lasting two hours and after several different motions had been made.

The meeting was well attended, the court room being crowded. There were quite a number of ladies in the audience. On motion of Mr. J. R. Mendenhall, Mr. Charles H. Ireland was made chairman. Mr. S. A. Kerr was elected secretary. After prayer by Rev. Dr. Turrentene the chairman stated the object of the meeting, saying there was a difference of opinion as to what was meant by the vote by which the dispensary was defeated last August—whether it meant that the sale of liquor was to be continued in Greensboro through the license system, or whether it meant the total abolition of the traffic in this city. Personally he had understood during the campaign that the defeat of the dispensary would result in open saloons, and he believed that a majority of the people who participated in the primary had the same understanding. He believed that a large majority of the people who voted against the dispensary wanted liquor, wanted it bad, and wanted plenty of it. Having gone into the fight in good faith, Mr. Ireland stated that, as a law-abiding citizen, he was compelled to accept what he considered the result until he had another chance with his ballot. Feeling this way in regard to the matter, he could not conscientiously sign a petition asking the aldermen to refrain from recommending the granting of license.

Continuing, Mr. Ireland stated that, while the result of the convention might be binding in this matter, the Christian people of Greensboro would not recognize this as the end of the fight against the whiskey evil in Greensboro.

Rev. T. M. Johnson, of Grace M. P. church, stated that he was always glad of an opportunity to enter his protest against the liquor traffic. He informed the meeting that Rev. Dr. Smith, who was unavoidably detained, was heartily in sympathy with the movement.

Prof. P. P. Claxton said that more than a year ago he had publicly expressed the opinion that prohibition was not practicable in Greensboro, and that the best way of managing the liquor traffic was through the dispensary syitem, properly managed. He was still of that opinion. He stated that he did not believe the opening of ten saloons in Greensboro would add one dollar to the material welfare of the city in ten years' time. The annual liquor bill sold in Greensboro was in the neighborhood, he added, of $100,000—more than three times the amount spent for public education in Guilford county. He was sure that it would be taking a long step backward for Greensboro to begin the twentieth century by permitting barrooms to be opened in the city. Professor Claxton closed his remarks by suggesting that the aldermen be requested to call a primary of the qualified white voters of the city to determine the matter. He also made a motion that two petitions be circulated against the licensing of saloons—one among the white voters and the other among the white women of the city.

Mr. Green, from New York, made a few remarks, stating that he had long observed the evils of open saloons and giving it as his opinion that the city of Greensboro would make a great mistake in licensing the traffic. Since coming to Greensboro he said he had been impressed by the order and sobriety of the city.

The next speaker was Rev. C. E Hodgin, of Westminster Presbyterian church, who endorsed Professor Claxton's plan. He thought this course would be absolutely fair to all concerned, since there was a difference of opinion as to whether the last vote meant barrooms or prohibition.

"It is nothing but right," said Rev. J. F. McCulloch, "that we should have an apportunity of expressing ourselves to the city council. We should instruct them now, and, in my opinion, instruct them to withhold license." He believed that a majority of the people in Greensboro were in favor of prohibition, but thought some of them had weakened because of the assertion, so often made, that prohibitory laws cannot be enforced.

At this juncture Professor Claxton introduced the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that it is injurious to the religious, moral and material welfare of the community to have barrooms in the city, and before granting license the board of aldermen be requested to submit the question to a primary of the qualified white voters of the city."

Dr. D.W. C. Benbow made a motion to the effect that an effort be made to get a petition of a majority of the qualified white voters of the city protesting against the granting of license. The motion was seconded by Rev. Mr. McCulloch.

Mr. A. W. McAlister thought that if this question was settled now it would rise again in the municipal campaign in the spring. He favored a petition or primary of all the voters of the city, both white and colored, taking the ground that if the colored voters were not taken into account they might become offended, and holding the balance of power, would aid in the election of a whiskey board of aldermen in May, probably endangering the material prosperity of the city.

There having been some discussion as to what the board of aldermen would do, Alderman Love took the floor to say that he was in the meeting because he liked that sort of company and to let the people know what he should do when the question of granting license came up. He was not elected to vote for license, he said, and whenever the people wanted him to do so they could get his resignation from the board.

An amendment was made to Dr. Benbow's motion by Mr. McAlister providing that the petition be circulated among all the qualified voters of the city. The amendment did not receive a second.

Professor Claxton then withdrew his motion for a prlmary and amended Dr. Benbow's motion by providing for four petitions—one for the white voters and one for the colored voters, and one each for the white and colored women.

Dr. Benbow's motion as amended was then adopted by a rising vote.

Mr. J. Norman Wills thought the temperance people were playing into the hands of their enemies. Since many were in the fix of the chairman and could not conscientiously sign a petition, it would very likely result in temporary defeat. He urged the meeting to take no action without further consideration.

G. T. Glascock, Esq., called attention to the fact that the first resolution in regard to the dispensary presented in the Democratic convention read "For Dispensary" and "For Barrooms." Since this resolution had been defeated, he did not see why any one was now debarred from signing a petition against the opening of barrooms.

The secretary of the meeting thought the petitions would amount to nothing and suggested a primary of the white voters. With a primary, he said, no one's hands would be tied.

On motion of Mr. Walter Greene, the previous question was reconsidered, after which Mr. Kerr moved that the chair appoint a committe to circulate a petition among the white voters asking the mayor to call the aldermen together for the purpose of considering a request of the petitioners for a primary. The motion was seconded by Mr. J. A. Odell.

Mr. A. W. McAlister offered an

TEXAS ANTI-TRUST LAW PASSED

LEGISLATURE WILL ELECT SENATOR AT NOON TOMOROW.

J. R. Young Again Insurance Commissioner—Fire Companies to Pay Face Value of Property When It is Totally Destroyed.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—A bill was introduced in the House requiring insurance companies to pay the face-value of fire insurance policies where property is entirely destroyed without criminal fault of the owner.

A joint resolution was adopted to elect a United States Seuator tomorrow.

Carson, Republican, of Alexande county, introduced a bill to amend the constitution so as to eliminate Indians and negroes in making up the senatorial aud judicial apportionment, This is aimed at the eastern counties and was perhaps inspired by Congressman Linney.

Robinson of Anson introduced an anti-trust bill virtually the Texas law.

Dubls of Mecklenburg, introduced a bill to provide for primary elections.

Governor Aycock sent to the Senate the nomination of J. R. Young as insurance commissioner. The nomination was confirmed in executive session,

STORE ROBBED.

Hutton & Hutton's Place Visited Saturday Night—The Thieves Caught, One of Whom Has a Weakness for Snuff.

Saturday night thieves entered the store of Hutton & Hutton on Spring Garden street and carried off a quantity of cheese, flour, coffee, snuff, etc. and three pairs of shoes. The windows of Messrs. Hutton's store downstairs are protected by iron bars, and the thieves climbed these bars to the second story and entered the store through an upstairs window. The cash drawer was broken into and six or seven dollars taken out. The loss was not discovered until Sunday morning when Mr. Hutton's clerk went to feed the horse and found that things were not as he left them on Saturday night. He immediately informed Mr. Hutton who proceeded to make an investigation. The loss was promptly reported to the police together with a partial memorandum of the things stolen.

Later in the day Mr. Hennessee, who keeps a lunch stand at the depot, reported having seen a negro on East Lee street about five o'clock carrying two or three baskets of goods. This together with the fact that Chief Scot has for some time had his eye on a negro on High street named Henry Berry, caused the former to get a search warrant and inspect the premises.

Accompanied by Officer Whittington, Chief Scott visited Berry and began searching the place. Almost immediately he found a large piece of cheese hid in a bureau drawer and Officer Whittington promptly siezed Berry. Matthew Whiting, commonly known as Wang, who was in the room, made a break for the door, but Mr. Scott nabbed him before he could escape.

A thorough search of the house was then made and most of the goods were found. About five pounds of butter were found in a heating stove, piled on a lot of kindling. Berry claims to have bought the stuff for two dollars from a stranger, but could throw no light on the seller's whereabouts. Berry is a confirmed snuff dipper, and the fact that about $3 worth of snuff was taken would indicate that he had a hand in the selection of the articles.

While the goods were being recovered Chief Scott picked up another clue—and this morning went back to the same house and picked up a wagon load of goods. These were the ones taken from Carl Wheeler's pantry and from the South Greensboro Market. In all, the Chief recovered two wagon loads of goods.

It is now thought that this negro Berry is the individual who has been so systematically robbing pantries for several weeks. He will appear before Mayor Taylor at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

A report from Kernersville states that small pox has made its appearance in that town.

SERVICES YESTERDAY.

Large Congregations—Presbyterian Meeting Continues—Temperance Sermon—Rev. Mr. Jenkins' Two Sermons.

Large audiences attended the various churches yesterday.

The protracted service at the First Presbyterian church continues this week, with preaching each evening at 8 o'clock. Special attention is called to tonight's meeting.

Dr. Turrentine on Temperance.

In the West Market Street church yesterday Rev. Dr. Turrentine preached a sermon on temperance. He gave a great many statistics relating to the evils of the liquor traffic, and gave his views of the scriptural references to the results of drinking, and, also, stated the position of the Methodist church, North and South, as utterly and always opposed to the traffic. At the conclusion of the sermon he referred to the present condition of the city as regards the business and said that the matter lay with the people to decide, in the fear of God, what was best to do for the city and for the people. The scriptural text was: "Yea, also, because he transgresseth by wine, he is a proud man, neither keepeth at home, who enlargeth his desire as hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people." There was an uunsually large congregation.

Mr. Richard Crawford's solo as an offertory was very fine.

Rev. Mr. Jenkins at the First Baptist.

Rev. C. A. Jenkins, President of the Southwest Virginia Female Institute, with postoffice at Bristol, Tenn., preached two sermons in the First Baptist church yesterday. He came at the solicitation of the church, which is again forced to consider the question of calling a pastor. Rev. Mr. Jenkins left North Carolina some six years ago, having been pastor of the Goldsboro church immediately preceeding his departure.

In the morning the sermon was on "Christ the Advocate." The preacher said that Christ is not the advocate of the unsaved, but of his own people. In the evening the sermon was a very interesting one on the subject of "Temptation." It was a very clear statement of how God does and does not tempt men—a subject on which there is a good deal of confusion of thought. God tempts, and yet he does not. There is temptation in a good sense and in a bad sense. The original meaning of the word tempt is to try, to test. This is the way God tempts men. The Old Version says God tempted Abraham; the New Version says He proved him. A mistress says to a servant, "Let us go down to the store, and while I am engaging the clerk, you slip a piece of goods under your cloak and when we get home we will divide it." That is temptation in the bad sense. A mistress desires to test her servant, so that, if she if found faithful, she may be trusted and her position and wages advanced; she leaves a coin where the servant may have an opportunity to take it if she desires, so that the mistress may know whether she is an honest servant or not. That is temptation in the good sense.

Sunday Rows.

The citizens of Duplin broke forth Saturday night, and enjoyed a lively shooting scrap among themselves. No dead negroes so far have been reported.

A crowd of boys went to a house of ill repute in the eastern suburbs of the city Saturday night, and raised a small-sized racket, trying to tear the house down, and otherwise misbehaving themselves. They are known to the police and will be attended to.

Warnersville also had her share of trouble, a negro woman complaining to the police that her house was entered by several men who fought all over the room, demolishing her furniture, etc. They will receive Mayor Taylor's consideration.

Recently several small boys have been engaged in the pastime of breaking the window panes in an old unused tobacco factory on Buchanan street. Officer Weaver caught two coons at this several days ago and captured one but the other escaped. Yesterday, however, he was apprehended and locked up.

NEARING THE LAST MOMENTS

THE QUEEN'S DEATH AT ANY MOMENT MAY BE ANNOUNCED.

The Prince of Wales is Also Sick and His Condition Causes Anxiety—Emperor William at the Queen's Bedside.

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, Jan. 21.—Afternoon—Home Secretary Ritchie has been hastily summoned to Osborne House. This means that the end of the Queen is near. It is the duty of the Home Secretary to witness and certify to the sovereign's death.

Kept Alive By Oxygen.

London, Jan. 21.—A report was circulated at 11:30 that the Queen had died, but it was soon shown to be untrue. The Queen is kept alive by the administration of oxygen.

An official bulletin is as follows: "Cowes, Isle of Wight, 11 a. m.—The Queen has slightly rallied since midnight. Her Majesty has taken some food and a refreshing sleep. There is no further loss of strength, but the symptoms which give the most anxiety are those which point to local abstruction to brain circulation."

Physicians Fear Death.

The bulletin issued by the physicians at 11 o'clock indicates that they fea that death may come suddenly as a result of the pressure of blood clots upon the brain.

May Come at Any Moment.

Cowes, Jan. 21, 12:15 p. m.—The Queen's slight rally this morning was followed by a gradual sinking, which, if continued, will result in her speedy death. No surprise will be felt here if her death is announced at any moment.

Prince of Wales Also Sick.

London, Jan. 21.—At 8:05 this morning a special train left Victoria Station for the Isle of Wight, carrying Emperor William of Germany, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, and the Duke of Connaught.

The Prince of Wales is plainly a very sick man. He has had attacks of heart trouble and forced a delay of the start for twelve hours. During that time the physicians had been in constant attendance upon him, and though he rallied sufficiently to undertake the journey, there is a widespread anxiety lest the shock of the grief and strain under which he is laboring may have a serious effect.

The Arch Bishop Not Yet Summoned.

London, Jan. 21, 3 p. m.—Speaker Gully received a telegram this afternoon at the House of Commons stating that the Queen is dying. The officials at Windsor Castle are preparing for a sudden return of the court. The Lord Chancellor's department is significantly described as arranging for any eventuality. An unofficial despatch from Windsor to the Exchange Telegram Company says a private message received from Windsor at midday says there is no hope for the Queen, and she is sinking fast. It might, however, be noted that many reckless rumors are afloat, due to the anxiety of the news agencies to out-vie one another. The Arch Bishop of Canterbury has not yet been summoned to Osborne.

Unconscious Since Wednesday Night.

Berlin, Jan. 21.—The foreign office has received information since the Emperor's arrival at Osborne house that the condition of the Queen is hopeless. It is learned that the object of the Emperor's visit is to deliver a special parting message in behalf of himself and mother, but it is believed at the British embassy here that the Queen has been unconscious since Wednesday night.

PROMISES COMMUNICATION WITH MARS

Richmond Times.

Th re are thousands of people living in the world today who do not believe that the planet of Mars is inhabited.

There are many others who do, and some of the leaders in science and foremost men in thought and invention are members of the last-named class.

Nicola Tesla, the inventor of the wireless telegraphy, is one of these. Astronomers tell us that the planet Mars is several millions of years older than the earth, and H. G. Wells, novelist, in one of his fantastic creations, has peopled this planet with a race of strange creatures. One thing, however, stands to reason, and that is this: If Mars is inhabited those inhabitants are far in advance of us as regards science, both theoretical and applied. This is what Tesla thinks, and why he is of the opinion has just recently been made known.

He is convinced that the Martians are trying to communicate with us.

Tesla's Dream.

Says Julian Hawthorne:

"Apart from love and religion there happened the other day to Mr. Tesla the most momentous experience that has ever visited a human being on this earth. As he sat beside his instrument on the hillside in Colorado, in the deep silence of that austere, inspiring region, where you plant your feet in gold and your head brushes the constellations—as he sat there one evening, alone, his attention, exquisitely alive at that juncture, was arrested by a faint sound from the receiver—three fairy taps, one after the other, at a fixed interval. What man who has ever lived on this earth would not envy Tesla that moment! Never before since the globe first swung into form had that sound been heard. Those three soft impulses, reflected from the sensitive disc of the receiver, had not proceeded from any earthly source. The force which propelled them, the measure which regarded them, the significance they were meant to convey, had their origin in no mind native to this planet.

They were sent, those marvelous signals, by a human being living and thinking so far away from us, both in space and in condition, that we can only accept him as a fact, not comprehend him as a phenomenon. Travelling with the speed of light, they must have been dispatched but a few moments before Tesla, in Colorado, received them. But they came from some Tesla on the planet Mars!

"This was two years ago; it has just been made public. Thereupon all the tame beasts with long ears in the stables of science begin waving those ears vigorously and braying forth indignant scoffs and denials. Yes, so has it ever been, and will be. How eagerly will every so-called son of science who has the power of absorbing, but not of assimilating or creating, rush to trample under his hoofs the man of genius, imagination and wisdom who commits the crime of disclosing to them the means of their own uplifting and humanization! 'Charlatan—fraud—fool!' they cry; and fetch out their musty little books of statistics and logarithms to show why it cannot be anything else but a humbug and delusion. Well, let us leave them trampling and braying, and consider for a moment what has occurred."

The Real Question.

The real question, however, is how will these interplanetary communications be conducted; what the medium to be employed; with such interplanetary communication as is proposed, electricity will doubtless be revealed as but the fractional aspect of a force possessing a vastly greater scope and power than have any of the phenomena of our experiments yet revealed to us. The energy of man's brain, if properly applied, may suffice to propagate waves of meaning from one end of the universe to the other, and science will unquestionably aid.

Nicola Tesla promises us communication with our terrestrial neighbors. How, when and where? remain to be seen.

CADETS VOLUNTEER TO QUIT HAZING.

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 19 —At the conclusion of the testimony before the investigating committee tonight, the following communication was handed to General Dick, Chairman of the committe:

"West Point, N. Y., Jan 19, 1901.

"To the Superintendent of the United States Military Academy:

"Sir: Having become cognizant with the view that the system of hazing as practiced at the Military Academy is regarded by the people of the United States, we, the cadets of the United States Military Academy, while maintaining that we have pursued our system from the best motive, yet realizing that the deliberate judgment of the people should, in a country like ours, be above all other considerations, do reaffirm our former action abolishing the exercising of fourth class men, and do further agree to discontinue hazing, the requiring fourth class men to eat anything against their desire and the practice of "calling out" fourth class men by class action, and that we will not devise other similiar practices to replace these abandoned.

"Respectfully submitted,

"For the First Class, W. R. Bettison, Bresident Class 1901; for the Second Class, B. O. Mahaffey, President Class 1902; for the Third Class, 1903; for the Fourth Class, Joseph A. Atkins, Representing Class 1904."

After reading the communication, General Dick said: "This voluntary act of the corps has so impressed the committee that they have every reason to believe that in spirit and letter it will be carried out by those cadets who are now at the Military Academy. This action of the men is greatly commended by the committee and will be read by the country with feelings of merited approbation."

He thanked Colonel Mills for the kindness and courtesy shown the committee since they came, and they also said the committee would go back to Congress with the kindest feelings and best wishes for the Academy and all concerned with it.

The committee then adjourned to meet again in Washington at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

It Was the Only Course Open to Them.

West Point, Jan. 19.—The congressional investigation of the West Point Military Academy has borne fruit rather unexpectedly. Tonight when the Congressmen were hurrying their inquiries to a termination, the cadets of all four classes held a meeting in Grant Hall, and unanimously decided to abadon exercising and hazing of every form as well as the practice of calling out fourth men. This is exactly what General Dick and the other members of the congressional committee have been trying to impress on the cadets who have testified before them as the only course open to them if they desired to see the fair name of the United States Military Academy unsullied and above reproach.

Resolutions of Respect.

At the last meeting of Guilford Lodge, No. 69, K. of P., the following resolutions of respect were adopted in memory of the late S. W. Thornlow:

"Whereas, in view of the loss Guilford Lodge, No. 69, has sustained by the death of our friend and Brother, S. W. Thornlow, and of the still heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that we regret his removal from our midst. We mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our regard.

"Resolved, That we sincerly condole with the family of the deceased in the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best, whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

"Resolved, That this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be recorded in our minutes and published in the Carolinian Pythian, the daily papers of the city, and a copy of same be forwarded to the widow of our departed brother by the K. of R. & S. of the Lodge.

The Old Stage Horn.

Charlotte Observer.

[The poet laureate of Guilford county, 'Squire J. M. Wolfe, who came to fame during the recent senatorial campaign by his poem, "Ho! Ye Brave Sons of Carolina!" is the author of the following exquisite lyric, which the Observer has the privilege of submitting to its readers this morning:]

Oh, that time would backward fly
For fifty years or more,
Then fools could see the reason why
I loved the days of yore.

But now the old are not "in it,"
I care not where you go;
The motto now's "git up and git,"
There's nothing going slow.

Talk not to me of Vestibules,
At sixty miles an hour,
Such things may please these modern fools,
Who can't tell sweet from sour.

But give me back my stage coach days
With driver tall and strong,
Who proudly sits behind his bays,
And blows his bugle long.

I've heard it when the sun was high,
I've heard it when 'twas low,
When wintry clouds o'er cast the sky,
With earth all wrap't in snow.

I've heard it from the shady bower,
I've heard it from the lawn,
I've heard it at the midnight hour,
I've heard it in the dawn.

I've heard it when 'twas bitter cold,
I've heard it when 'twas warm,
I've heard it when the dark clouds rolled,
I've heard it in the storm.

And sweeter notes I never heard,
Since you and I were born,
From nightingale or mocking bird,
Than from the old Stage Horn.

Now, you can laugh, and wink, and blink,
And think just what you please,
Old rats care not what young rats think,
So old rats get their cheese.

You may not like my old-time song,
Then let's have one from you;
Tune up your lyre, it wont take long,
And give us something new.

'LASSES AND MO' LASSES.

The Danville Free Press pushes its paddle into the discussion which has for some time been carried on by the Charlotte Observer and the Norfolk Landmark regarding some of the beautiful forms of speech in use in this country, and, since these esteemed contemporaries are engaged also in pointing out some improvements that might be made, The Free Press asks them to invent an indefinite or a "double gender" pronoun, and some prefix that will indicate whether a simple Mr. is married or single, and it also asks what number measles may be supposed to be in, and whether it is the best form to say "that molasses," or "them molasses." To all of which The Observer makes reply as follows:

The Danville Free Press does The Observer to much honor in writing of it as an authority upon style; upon this it is ready to sit at anybody's feet and learn. It comes out strong on science, but claims primacy for itself in no other field of thought. Nevertheless, it is a little up on smilax and candelabra and other accessories of at homes and pink teas, if it does say so itself; and in writing of these delightful occasions never offends against the English language by saying that "everybody enjoyed himself," but invariably that "all enjoyed themselves," whether they did or not. As to a prefix which will signify whether a man is married or single, we have yet to study that out. Whether it is "those molasses" or "that molasses," the question is one to which the centuries have given no answer. The measles problem is easy—look at the victim. Whoever saw a person with a measle? In the nature of the disease the term is plural.

But as to questions, there are others, and of inaccuracies of speech there are many. Thus we say that Squire Maxwell yesterday married Mr. Hooks, of Paw Creek, and Miss Plunk, of Morning Star. That is manifestly erroneous, for several reasons. In the first place, the 'squire is already married and is too nice a man to commit bigamy; and again, if he were seeking a bride he would not woo Mr. Hooks. The late Bishop Greene, of Mississippi—God rest him! he was born a North Carolinian, by the way—sought to lead the English-speaking world away from this absurdity of speech by coining the excellent word "marrify." The statement that 'Squire Maxwell had marrified Mr. Hooks and Miss Plunk would make everything smooth and consistent and relieve him of any unjust suspicion; but like a great many other reforms which have been proposed—for instance the sub-treasury plan, 16 to 1, and $50 per capita, issued direct to the people—the suggestion of Bishop Greene, though lacking nothing in merit, was coldly received and has been forgotten.

No, we must protest to The Danville Free Press that The Observer is not an authority upon style, and until it can stop its own correspondents from telegraphing that "Mr. John Smith happened to an accident," or, as one did night before last, that "Mr Luke Russell, of near Institute, Lenoir county," etc., it will not essay the part of a reformer of other people's language, though it is always ready to answer the question about measles or to say what is good form in describing how the push got along at a function.

It will be noted that The Observer slips over the question as to the number of molasses, implying that it is of no consequence. We object to this. It is of great importance. There is a phase of this question which was suggested by a Greensboro pickanny, also, to which we would direct the attention of the learned gentlemen of The Observer, The Landmark and The Free Press. At the first family meal after a colored youth had returned home from school, he, with a learned air, told one of the little coons of the family that he must ask for the molasses, and not for the "lasses." The rising limb of Afro-Americanism walled his eyes at his dude brother in a contemptuous way and with genuine African spirit replied: "Look out nigger; don't come none yer fancy ways wid me, how's I gwine to ax for mo' 'lasses when I ain't done had no lasses yit?" The Observer need not think it can shy away from the 'lasses question so easily. It must explain how a nigger is gwine to ax for mo' when he ain't had no 'lasses.

amendment to the effect tnat the aldermen be requested to call a primary of the qualified voters. Mr. Kerr protested, saying the negroes would vote almost solidly for barrooms. Whereupon Alderman Love reminded the meeting that the negro voted last May, but failed to whip anybody. Mr. McAlister's amendment did not receive a second.

A call for the question resulted in a ananimous vote in favor of Mr. Kerr's white primary. While no one voted against the motion, there were many who refrained from voting at all.

The meeting then adjourned sine die.

THEY SUFFER NO PENALTY.

Scores of Men Who Rob Banks Are Never Brought to the Bar of Justice.

"Alvord's theft of $700,000 and Schreiber's of $106,000," said an expert accountant, according to the Philadelphia Record, "go to show that in all business it is impossible to prevent dishonest men from stealing. No matter how thorough the auditing may be, no matter how closely the heads watch those under them, every man who handles money can steal, with a reasonable chance of escaping detection. That more such men don't steal speaks well for human nature, but I must qualify this statement with the additional one that many do steal and are caught, but their employers, while discharging them, do not make public their crimes. It isn't charity which impels the employers to do this, though; it is a fear of hurting the credit of the firm.

"You can safely say that 90 per cent. of the thieving employes of Philadelphia are not brought to justice. Usually they arrange to pay back their defalcations on the installment plan. I know a bachelor of 43 who in his youth robbed the bank that employed him of $4,800, with which he speculated, hoping to make enough to marry. He lost all, was discovered and is still paying off, out of a paltry salary, that debt of shame. I know the histories of scores of defaulters, and in every case the thefts were, in a way, innocently begun. The money was taken with the determination that it would be replaced."

Remorse.

The Chicago Tribune prints the following confession: "I am convinced I didn't work the Cuban post offices as well as I might have done."—Weyler.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS

The woman who is lovely in face form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50 cents at C. E Holton's drug store.

CASEINE INDUSTRY.

New Use for Buttermilk Has Been Lately Discovered.

Transformed Into Buttons and Glue—A Branch of Business That Is of Great Benefit to the Farmer.

In the last ten years the caseine industry of this country has developed into one of the best investments for both the farmer and the manufacturer. It is not so long ago that buttermilk was such a drug on the market that it was regarded as a food for pigs or as a waste substance to be thrown away. This has been changed, and, where formerly the dairyman obtained nothing for the liquid, he now converts it into ceaseine, either in his own dairy or in a factory owned by the caseine trust. Caseine is an albumenose substance, best known to the average citizenu in the form of cheese. It contains as much nitrogen as meat, more than eggs, and much more than fish. Its food value is therefore very high. Thus far this feature has not been utilized in the United States, all our own caseine being used for other industries, but vast quantities go to France and Germany, where they are transferred into artificial foods. The manufacture is now up in the millions of pounds, and is increasing annually. Some is converted into buttons. This is done by mixing the caseine with fine clay and other inorganic materials made into a paste, rolled, stamped and baked. It makes a light, glossy and handsome button, and is much stronger than the one made of chinaware alone. In the matter of small buttons and studs, it can be made iridescent or colored to suit the public fancy, says the New York Post.

Thus far in our own land caseine has been put to low utilitarian purposes. By chemical treatment, it is changed into a very strong glue, which is used in making veneers. Several great cooperages out west now make barrel-heads of these veneers, and save one or two pounds of weight, and at the same time get a stronger and handsomer barrel head. These veneers are also employed for chair-seats, car-seats, sounding-boards, and piano-cases. A second use is as a constituent of water pulp. Caseine is snow whote, and, when mixed with wood pulp, straw pulp, and similar bodies gives a whiter and clearer product, and also one that is less brittle and more durable. This mixed pulp is made into paper for newspapers, writing-paper, wall-paper, and paper boxes. The white boxes which the more enterprising shoe dealers and department stores now affect are the results of this industry.

Caseine mingled with lime makes a liquid covering, intermediate between whitewash and paint, which possesses a handsome gloss, and is very much cheaper than the latter. The lime reacts upon it and makes it both waterproof and, to a certain extent, fireproof. As a finish for fine leather goods, it is now employed in at least 50 of the leading works of the country. It is particularly adapted for fine kids, goat-skins, dog-skins, calf and sheep-skins. It is also used as a finish for the outside of lead pencils, penholders and other wooden wares.

RAISIN SEEDING.

New Occupation for New York Women and How the Work Is Done.

The public belief that raisin seeds produce appendicitis has created an unusually large demand for seeded raisins. Nearly every grocer now carries a large stock, and several houses make this their exclusive business. Outside of the houses the work is done on an extensive scale by poor women of the East side. Most of them receive the raisins from grocers, seed and return them, receiving a small amount per pound. Those who can afford it use the ingenious little mechanisms which have been invented for the purpose, while the others rely upon a sharp knife, a steel fork, and their own muscular fingers. A few intelligent toilers employ clumsy inventions of their own, a favorite one being a screen of wires through which they force the seeds, says the New York Post.

The work is done in tenement-houses, and very often in the cellars. Nothing is allowed to go to waste; the seeds and the little pulp which is lost with the latter is put aside until the amount is five or ten pounds in weight. They are then placed in barrels, covered with water, and fermented. The fermentation changes the fluid into the popular raisin wine so common on the East side. This time of the year is the harvest season of the trade. The demand is but moderate in October, is large in November, and attains the maximum just before and during the Christmas holidays. The raisins themselves are usually classified according to their size, quality, and the purpose for which they are intended. The best go to the table, where they form a dessert dainty. The second quality is used for wedding-cakes, Christmas and New Year's cakes, and the macedoines popular among our foreign citizens. The third and poorest class is used for pies, puddings, cheap cakes, poultry stuffing and the making of sauces.

Not on Scriptural Grounds.

Up about Danville they are having smallpox and the physicians are having the usual trouble about getting people to submit to vaccination. The Register tells of a unique case. A mother, Mrs. Bethel, refused either to be vaccinated herself or to permit her two little girls to be vaccinated. Mrs. Bethel started in to argue the case with the mayor on the scriptural grounds but His Honor informed her that he was running the court purely on city and state ordinance lines and gave her her choice of submitting to the law or paying the fine or going to jail. She claimed that as she was holy before the Lord she did not need a physician and refused the rule and went to jail. The mayor reserved his decision as to the children, but sent them to jail with their mother temporaily.

Mr. Ed. Smith contributed three dollars to swell the coffers of the city this morning, the result of a fight in the pool room Saturday night.

Notices of New Advertisements.

Clothing dyed, cleaned, repaired and pressed—Venable Bros.

For Cuban Service.

Six recruits for service in Cuba were sent from the Greensboro recruiting office yesterday. They went from here to Fort Wood, New York.

Mr. A. A. Kirkman, who lives on Spring Garden street had several fine chickens last week. On Saturday he sold them, and on Saturday night somebody made a raid on his hennery but the fowls were not there. Mr. Kirkman is felicitating himself on the fact that he sold them when he did.

Sunday Passed Under a Shadow.

Associated Press Dispatch in The Charlotte Observer.

London, Jan. 21.—Throughout the United Kingdom yesterday was a Sunday of anxiety and suspense. No one in England, outside the circle of the court, knew the real condition of the Queen, or the nature of her disease. The bulletins threw but little light on the universal question whether death was imminent. The London newspapers had not learned that Her Majesty had suffered a shock of paralysis. Extra editions of the Sunday papers were eagerly bought.

There were small gatherings in the vicity of Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House, as well as other centres where the bulletins were posted. Crowds assembled to witness the arrival of Emperor William. Apart from such incidents, however, the customary quiet of a London Sunday was not disturbed.

A QUEER GIRL

By S. H. James.

"SHALL I invite her?"

Stella Reeves paused, with pen poised in the air.

"Can I help you, Stella?" asked Mrs. Reeves, from the depths of her easy-chair by the fire.

"I was thinking, mother," responded Stella, "whether I should invite Myra Garland to spend a week here. You know that Patty Harper, Nellie Campbell and Jennie Stagg are coming."

"Why not invite Myra?" asked Mrs. Reeves, eyeing her daughter curiously.

"Well, I don't know," said Stella, slowly. "She is ever so nice a girl, but she's queer."

"How queer?"

"Very quiet, and not at all like other girls. Sometimes I like her, and sometimes I do not, and that is the way with all the girls. She is not good company, I am afraid, and yet I want to invite her for that very reason. She never goes home except during the summer, and it is so dreary in the academy during Christmas and Easter holidays. But I dare say she will not come, anyhow."

"Invite her, Stella," said Mrs. Reeves, quietly. And Stella did.

It was night when Myra came, the train being late, and Mrs. Reeves did not see her until they all sat at the breakfast table next morning.

All the girls were there, and at first Mrs. Reeves mentally decided that Myra was only a homely girl with brown hair and hazel eyes, and much like other girls, but before the meal was ended she found herself watching the girl with increasing curiosity. She was queer, in her reversed, almost morose, manner, in her habitual silence and her grave, sweet smile.

"She is queer," said Mrs. Reeves to herself, "but I like her."

Before the day was out she liked Myra more than ever. When the other girls went out for a walk, Myra stayed indoors, fed the canary, dusted the bric-a-brac, and shook up the sofa and chair pillows, and did several other little tasks which Stella generally forgot.

Within three days Myra was firmly established in the Reeves household. She was so handy and so helpful and so good natured, everybody said, that Stella and the girls actually held a caucus to discover why they had called her queer, and failed to find a cause.

On the evening of the third day Arthur Reeves came home on leave from the naval school, where he was a cadet. Arthur was only 18, but such a big, burly fellow, especially in his cape overcoat, that you would have taken him for 25 at least—at a distance.

"You shall be our cavalier, Arthur," said Stella, "and I promise you shall have your hands full."

"All right," asserted Arthur, carelessly. "Bring on your girls; you can't frighten a sailor."

Then began a round of gayety such as fairly took away the girls' breath. They made trips to the old mill and the abandoned powder magazine, they went hunting and skating, and Arthur was the guiding spirit in all their pranks.

Myra revived her reputation for queerness in these expeditions.

"By the great hoop-block!" cried Arthur, with undisguised admiration, to his mother, as he was eating a late breakfast, "I call her a jolly girl, and no mistake."

"The girls say she is queer," said Mrs. Reeves.

"Queer!" he burst out. "Well, yes, perhaps she is, but I wish there were more queer girls like her. Is she rich, mother?"

"I believe not, Arthur."

"That's lucky!"

"Lucky?"

"For her. She will have to work, and she is sure to make her mark, and it will be a big one. Mother, I think—"

"Arthur!" called Stella, outside, "if you ever get through eating, we girls would like to have you drive us to the post office."

On Tuesday Arthur's leave would expire, and so it was arranged that on Monday there should be a picnic. It was Arthur's idea.

"Why not?" he asked. "It's mere nonsense to suppose that you can't have a picnic only in summer. What's the matter with taking the big sleigh, loading it up with picnic grub, including rubber blankets, in case we want to sit on the ground, and having a first-class time generally?"

It was unanimously voted that there was "nothing the matter with it," and on Monday morning the picnic sleigh jingled off.

Myra was there, even more quiet than usual, and her only response to the general chatter was a grave smile.

"What an old grandmother she is!" whispered Nellie Campbell to Jennie Stagg; and Jennie nodded a vigorous assent.

"I believe she has some dreadful ailment," whispered Patty Harper, in her turn, "and I wouldn't be surprised to see her drop at any moment."

"Pooh!" said Stella, contemptuously; "it is only Myra's way."

Meanwhile the object of these remarks sat quietly on the box-seat with Arthur, and said never a word.

"I say," said Arthur, at length, "why don't you talk?"

"Because I have nothing to say," replied Myra, tranquilly. "Besides, I am thinking—"

"Of the picnic?"

Myra smiled.

"Something more important than picnics. Have you ever been in Cairo?"

Arthur looked at her in amazement.

"What a queer girl!" he exclaimed, involuntarily.

Myra actually laughed.

"I know I am," she said, quickly; "but that is not answering my question. Were you ever in Cairo?"

"Twice."

"Do you know where the British consul general has his office?"

"Quite well. But what in the world—"

"Patience! Is there a large brick warehouse directly opposite, owned by an English firm, where ivory, ostrich feathers and spices are stored?"

"By Jove, there is!" ejaculated Arthur, in increasing amazement. "I remember it quite well, it is such an old building. But I say—"

"One more question," interrupted Myra, for the first time betraying some excitement. "Do you remember the Englishman's name?"

"Let me see," reflected Arthur. "I have heard it often enough. It is Golden—Garden—no, Gar—yes! Garland! Why, that's your name, isn't it?"

"Yes," answered Myra, with another smile. "The Cairo Garland was my uncle. He is dead, and I am going to Egypt next month to straighten out his affairs. I hear they are dreadfully tangled."

Arthur nearly let the lines fall.

"You are going to Egypt!" he repeated, mechanically. "Do you know anything about Egypt?"

"Not so much as I expect to," replied Myra.

And before Arthur could tell her what he thought of a 17-year-old girl going half round the world to settle anybody's affairs, Stella called out:

"Arthur, how long is it going to take to find a picnic ground?"

"We won't go a foot further," said Arthur, reining up. "We are eight miles from home now, and it looks like snow."

"Let it snow!" cried the girls, recklessly.

Then they swept a clear space, spread out the eatables, and began to eat right away, as picnic folks always do, while Arthur blanketed the horses.

But this picnic was just like every other picnic. Not being in summer, it couldn't rain; so it snowed, and after braving it out until they looked like snow images, it was decided to scurry home.

Then the usual accident occurred, but somewhat more serious than usual. One of the horses kicked Arthur on the knee as he was hitching him, and he sank down in a heap, with a cry of pain.

At this there was a great uproar, and the horse, highly alarmed, showed signs of lashing out again, in which case Arthur would have been brained, when Myra stepped forward quietly but quickly, and led the horse out of reach.

"Are you able to stand?" she asked, gently.

"Just about," replied Arthur, trying to choke off a groan. "I think some small bones must be fractured. Can any of the girls hitch up the horses?"

There was a blank silence, and then Myra said:

"I think I can, if you will look on and keep me from going wrong."

Arthur was thereupon helped into the sleigh, and just about the time the horses were hitched up he complicated matters by declaring that he felt so faint he could not drive.

"What shall we do?" wailed Stella.

And there were signs of a regular panic, when Myra said:

"I will drive, if Stella will show me the way."

Arthur was helped into the house, and then Myra added to the prevailing astonishment by volunteering to go for the doctor.

"It is only a mile," she said, "and I have my hand in now."

You may be sure that Mrs. Reeves and the girls made much of Myra for the next day or two, and were as much grieved as amazed when she announced her intention of leaving them for a long and perhaps dangerous journey.

"I thought," said Mrs. Reeves, inquiringly, "that you had no friends besides your aunt?"

"So did I," said Myra, quietly. "It was the morning of the picnic that I received the letter announcing my uncle's death."

"And you made up your mind within an hour what to do?" queried Arthur, who was propped up among some cushions.

Myra smiled assent.

"A very queer girl," said Mrs. Reeves to herself for the hundredth time.

She said it again when Stella received a letter from Myra, dated Cairo, March 10, 1885, telling her how she had administered her uncle's estate, and winding up with these words:

"You need not expect to see me for some time, as I have joined the Red Cross society, and I leave for Khartoum to-morrow."

"With all her money!" exclaimed Stella. "Well, I never! I was certain that she would go to Paris the very first thing!"

Not another word from Myra until a month after the cable brought the news that the war in Egypt was over, and then came another long and loving letter.

Arthur was home again, taller and stouter than ever, and very anxious to hear about the queer girl.

"I'll wager she's tired of the Red Cross," he said, with a laugh. "She is too young for such miserable scenes."

"She has left the Red Cross society," said Stella, with a look at her mother.

"I knew it," cried Arthur.

"And," continued Stella, slowly, "she has started for Chinese Tartary—"

"What?"

"To devote her life to missionary work. Her aunt is amply provided for, and the remainder of her fortune and all her life Myra has given to the heathen."

There was almost a painful pause for a full minute, broken by Arthur.

"You're right, mother—she is a queer girl! The queerest I ever knew."

"More than queer," was Mrs. Reeves' quiet comment. "She is the stuff that martyrs are made of."—Golden Days.

The number of discontented Turks must be enormous. Forty-eight thousand have been exiled during the last 11 years. To these must be added those who have fled and those who are related to the exiles. During the last five years more than $4,888,000 has been spent by the sultan in trying to persuade the fugitives to return.

IT SAVED HIS LEG.

P. A. Danforth, of LaGrange, Ga., suffered intensely for six months with a frightful running sore on his leg, but writes that Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured it in ten days. For ulcers, wounds, burns, boils, pain or piles it's the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton druggist.

The most soothing, healing and antiseptic application ever devised is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It relieves at once and cures piles, sores, eczema and skin diseases. Beware of imitations. Howard Gardner.

BISMARCK'S IRON NERVE

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25c at C. E. Holton's drug store.

Pepsin preparations often fail to relieve indigestion because they can digest only albumnious foods. There is one preparation that digests all classes of food, and that is Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It cures the worst cases of indigestion and gives instant relief, for it digests what you eat. Howard Gardner.

When the Hair Falls Out

accompanied by mucous patches in the mouth, eruptions on the skin, sore throat, copper colored splotches, swolien glands, aching muscles and bones, the disease is making rapid headway, and far worse symptoms will follow unless the blood is promptly and effectually cleansed of this violent destructive poison.

S. S. S. is the only safe and infallible cure for this disease, the only antidote for this specific poison. It cures the worst cases thoroughly and permanently.

My Condition Could Have Been No Worse. In the fall of 1897 I contracted Blood Poison. I tried three doctors, but their treatment did me no good; I was getting worse all the time; my hair came out, ulcers appeared in my throat and mouth, my body was almost covered with copper colored splotches and offensive sores. I suffered severely from rheumatic pains in my shoulders and arms. My condition could have been no worse; only those afflicted as I was can understand my sufferings. I had about lost all hope of ever being well again when I decided to try S. S. S., but must confess I had little faith left in any medicine. After taking the third bottle I noticed a change in my condition. This was truly encouraging, and I determined to give S. S. S. a thorough trial. From that time on the improvement was rapid; S. S. S. seemed to have the disease completely under control; the sores and ulcers healed and I was soon free from all signs of the disorder; I have been strong and healthy ever since.

L. W. SMITH, Lock Box 611, Noblesville, Ind.

SSS is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. $1,000 is offered for proof that it contains a particle of mercury, potash or other mineral poison.

Send for our free book on Blood Poison; it contains valuable information about this disease, with full directions for self treatment. We charge nothing for medical advice; cure yourself at home.

MOTHER AND CHILD

Let the mother take Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil for the two; it is almost never superfluous.

One can eat for two; but nourishing two is a different thing; it implies a degree of interior strength not often found in woman of either extreme.

Luxurious people are not very strong by habit, and overworked people are weak from exhaustion in some of their functions. Between the two is the happy mean; but how many women have plenty of life for two?

The emulsion is almost never superfluous.

We'll send you a little to try if you like.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments, doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

PREVENTED A TRAGEDY.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, O., prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had kept her awake every night. She tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

This season there is a large death rate among children from croup and lung troubles. Prompt action will save the little ones from these terrible diseases. We know of nothing so certain to give instant relief as One Minute Cough Cure. It can also be relied upon in grippe and all throat and lung troubles of adults. Pleasant to take. Howard Gardner.

STORY OF A SLAVE.

To be bound hand and foot for yeasr by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams. of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says "My wife has been been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle-working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, rundown people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist.

When threatened by pneumonia or any other lung trouble, prompt relief is necessary, as it is dangerous to delay. We would suggest that One Minute Cough Cure be taken as soon as indications of having taken cold are noticed. It cures quickly and its early use prevents consumption. Howard Gardner.

A "CROSS" DOG.

Kills a Neighbor Dog, Gets Shot and Clubbed, But Escapes.

Yesterday morning Mr. M. W. Thompson, who lives on Gorrell street, heard a noise about his dog kennel and went out to investigate. He found his dog, a valuable setter, dead, and another dog, very bloody, in the kennel, having caught himself in such a manner as to prevent his escape. Mr. Thompson fastened the dog in a room on his lot to keep him until his owner should turn up. Sometime afterwards Mr. Thompson's mother, on going out into the yard, found the dog at liberty. She tried to coax him back into the house but he sprang at her viciously, biting her in the face. The dog then ran at large for some time and created considerable excitement about the depot which attracted a crowd of people Afterwards he was taken by his owner and a negro to the outskirts of the town and there shot several times with a pistol. But the canine proved as tenacious of life as cats are, and didn't go dead at all, whereupon the negro took a club and began beating him over the head, but the dog, not liking this, broke loose and has not since been seen.

It is not thought that the dog was really mad, but that he had a tumor of some kind in his head which made him "cross." The dog was owned by Mr. Cam Witherspoon.

Mr. J. W. Zink expects to begin his regular trips again with milk and butter on next Wednesday, when he will be glad to see his many customers and friends again. 1t
